issues, and now that "Deacon" Jones is back, I will have a chance, not on this time speaking because it is not my own, to read some of his comments that he made before the Agriculture Committee that I think probably were on target considering the subject that we were discussing. But how he can be so right on that issue and so wrong on this one is what I guess keeps psychiatrists in business. I might open a...open an office and take some training. You've got to be a medical doctor before you can be a psychiatrist, so maybe I'll just be a psychologist. I can get there quicker and I'll do just as well. And I will cater only to Nebraska State Senators, and I will name my office the Nutcracker Suite. That will be the name of mine. Now to get back to this bill, it doesn't really matter what Senator Bromm says, what Senator Byars says, what I say. I think people know how they're going to vote. But I'm going to take the full 24 hours on this bill because Senator Byars very defiantly told me, the first day that I mentioned the problems with the bill, he's ready to do it. So I hope he hasn't written a check that the Legislature doesn't want to pay or cash. He bound the entire Legislature because he knows now, if he didn't know then, that when that kind of challenge is laid toward me on an issue that I feel as deeply about as I do on this one, I will carry out my part. I will take the 24 hours, and I could take them all during a 24-hour period. But that's not the way the Legislature operates. While we're having committee hearings, we only go from nine till twelve, or whatever time we start to maybe a few minutes before or after twelve. But each time we go through one of those mornings, a day is removed from the total 90 days. And Senator Byars is helping me to remove those days, and it also gives the opportunity to deal with some of these issues. I think I will just give some of the preliminary comments from "Deacon" Jones's testimony before the Agriculture Committee. How much time do I have, Mr. President?

PRESIDENT MAURSTAD: One minute.

SENATOR CHAMBERS: No, I can't get enough of it in that one minute to have a decent place to break off. But, Senator Byars, everybody is saying that they think you're sincere in what you're doing, so I'll say the same thing. I think you're sincere in what you're doing. That has never, though, cut any ice with me when what the sincere person is doing cuts across
